Low-Fly Quintet

STOP FOR A WHILE

Når Camilla synger

Blir Mjøsbrua lang

Rekker fra Hamar til New York City

Når Camilla synger åpner hjertet seg

Tida åpner seg, hundre år kommer til oss

Elia Fitzgerald smiler

Bessie Smith stumper sigaretten og lytter:

After You've Gone

Når Camilla synger danser celloen

Gråter som en sax: Black And Blue

Pianoet folder vingene ut

Med svarte og hvite fjær

Cymbalene skjelver og kontrabassen

Fylles av rav og tidevann

But Beautiful

Når Camilla synger bestiller Radka Toneff

Black Coffee

Og slepper ei tåre ned:

Stop For A While, stop for a while

Men jazzen kan ingen stanse

Over alle bruer

Gjennom alle hjertet

Gjennom all tid

Vandrer han vår trofaste gamle elsker

Kommer når vi minst ventet det

Skriver med lys på vår innerste veg

A Sweeter Dream

Mens han mumler i skjeget: I Want To Be Evil

Så snur han seg og går

Videre, alltid videre

... mens Camilla synger

Geirr Lystrup

When Camilla sings

The bridge over Mjøså grows longer

Reaches all the way from Hamar to New York City

When Camilla sings, hearts are laid open wide

Time opens up, bringing us a century

Elia Fitzgerald smiles

Bessie Smith puts out her cigarette and listens:

After You've Gone

When Camilla sings the cello dances

Wails like a sax: Black And Blue

The piano unfolds its wings

Feathers black and white

The cymbals shiver and the upright bass

Is filled with amber and tide

But Beautiful

When Camilla sings Radka Toneff orders

Black Coffee

And spills a tear:

Stop For A While, stop for a while

But jazz you cannot stop

Across all bridges

Through all hearts

Through all of time

He wanders, our faithful old lover

Comes when we least expect it

Writes with light on our innermost wall

A Sweeter Dream

While he mumbles in his beard:

I Want To Be Evil

Then he turns and walks away

Moves on, always moving on

... while Camilla sings

Geirr Lystrup
