Three years have passed since our last album, and the world is changing. Again. Corona and lockdown were upon us three years ago; today, the pandemic is only a bleak shadow in our minds. Now, there are wars on our continent and in the Middle East. Headlines about economic instability, corruption, and increasing social inequality are shouting at us in caps lock, and democracy is facing its gravest challenges in modern times. Where is the world heading? I don't know, and nobody can know for sure. I know we are constantly on our way, regardless of the direction. With this album, I have tried to make music that doesn't pretend to be anything else than just music. Music with passion, humour, energy and hopefully a feeling of escape from some of our worries on this endless journey into the future.

This album can be enjoyed in a Dolby Atmos mix on Apple Music, Tidal, as well as other streaming services.
