LOSEN

This new album from Antonello Sorrentino is a delight. His writing is fresh, we can hear his influences, but nevertheless there is something highly personal both in his writing and his playing. His warm sound is welcomed right away and makes some beautiful statements with the right amount of lyricism and dynamism.

His love for melodies and composition is evident all through the album. Furthermore one can enjoy listening to his Italian roots with its lyricism, but at the same time witness the music going further and embracing no boundaries.

This music is what we need now, with the times we are witnessing, healing, full of beauty and charm. Not overly complex or too simple, just some beautiful music that can stand the test of time.

Enjoy!!!

I would like to thank, in no particular order and for various reasons:
Nica e Nora, Gianni, Betty, Generoso and my old aunt.
My thanks go to Alessandro, Andrea and Cesare for making this album special.
A special thanks to Odd for believing in Nicanora from the very start.
I am grateful to Simone and Luigi for their advice.
I thank Clive, Francesco, Kjersti, Emilia, and Max for their valuable contributions.
I thank Gregoire for the wonderful words about the album.
Thanks to Dave and Wayne for showing us the way.
